

Jewish Cultural Studies: v. 4

By Simon J. Bronner

The Littman Library of Jewish Civilization, United Kingdom, 2014. Paperback. Book Condition: New. New.. 238 x 166 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Modernity offers people choices about who they want to be and how they want to appear to others. The way in which Jews choose to frame their identity establishes the dynamic of their social relations with other Jews and non-Jews - a dynamic complicated by how non-Jews position the boundaries around what and who they define as Jewish. This book uncovers these processes, historically, as well as in contemporary behavior, and finds explanations for the various manifestations, in feeling and action, of being Jewish. Boundaries and borders raise fundamental questions about the difference between Jews and non-Jews. At root, the question is how Jewish is understood in social situations where people recognize or construct boundaries between their own identity and those of others. The question is important because this is by definition the point at which the lines of demarcation between Jews and non-Jews, and between different groupings of Jews, are negotiated. Collectively, the contributors to the book expand our understanding of the social dynamics of framing Jewish identity. The book opens with an introduction that...
