FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Louisiana Conservation Review, Vol. 2: March, 1932 Sanctuaries of adequate size, so situated as to serve the more interesting forms of the various types, seem to be the only solution to a problem that has aroused to earnest effort a number of interested individuals and organizations, especially the American Society of Mammalogists, and the New York Zoological Society. It seems fitting that the American Nature Association, which exists mainly to work for the preservation of our threatened wild life resources, should end its influence to this worthy effort. It was this decision that largely motivated the pack-finley expedition to Southern Alaska in the summer of 1931, an account of which will appear in next month's issue of Nature Magazine. Another camera hunter John M. Holzworth, has spent several seasons with Alaska's large bears, also on Admiralty Island, and has published in book form an able defence of the brown bear, based largely on his own close associations with the animal. The wild life of Alaska is under the administration of the Alaska Game Commission, com...
