CASCADE BOOKS, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 127 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Every three seconds, a girl under the age of 18 is married somewhere across the world - usually without her consent and sometimes to a much older man. Combining rigorous research and compelling personal testimonies, Elaine Storkey investigates the different forms of violence experienced by women across the globe today. From female infanticide and enforced under-age marriage to domestic abuse, prostitution, rape and honour killings , violence against women occurs at all stages of life, and in all cultures and societies. How and why has this violence become so prevalent? Storkey examines the answers that are commonly offered, including theories based on evolutionary psychology and the rise of patriarchal power structures. She also considers the role that religion can play - for good or ill - in the struggle against this universal evil. Powerful and absorbing, Scars Across Humanity painstakingly documents the gross injustices facing women around the world. Some of the stories made headlines, many passed unnoticed and too many occurred much closer to home than we might realize. Elaine has done us a great service in not only describing what is happening, but also seeking to understand why it happens - and what needs to be done to tackle this worldwide problem. This is not an easy book to read, but it is a necessary book. I hope the stories she shares and facts she brings before us will encourage us all to pray - and to join in the work of bringing healing and an end to gender-based violence. Jackie Harris, Editor, Woman Alive This is a courageous and a terrifying book. We all know that acts of violence against women are a problem, but never have we...
