Souls have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb but the fountain opened, has not so often been found in the sanctuary, as out of it: less frequently among the leaders of the hosts of the Lord, than among those who follow. The Church has been used; but more to gather up, than to sow and reap: less to win souls to Christ, than to shelter those already won; and the humbling fact stands recorded in numerous localities, that when the work began, and search was made for the sons of Levi, when found, they had not separated themselves, and were not in a suitable condition to lead those Whose prayers were being answered, and who were on their way to Jerusalem; or to give a certain sound to their trumpets, in calling sinners to repentance: and a spectacle, strange, as it was unnatural, has been witnessed, of souls athirst for salvation, passing the Church and her officers, to beseech an interest in the prayers of individual Christians, or the union bands of praying disciples. And when the Spirit con vinced of sin, men instinctively, as well as by the Spirits teaching, ed to those who had the power of godliness, rather than the form and knowledge of it; and clung to those in whom the image of Jesus most clearly appeared, wherever they were found; regarding whence they came, less important, than whither they were gomg.
