By Frederick Templeman

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Marine Insurance: Its Principles and Practice In a few prefatory words I desire to express my sense of the honour conferred upon me by the London Chamber of Commerce in inviting me to give a series of five lectures on the subject of Marine Insurance: its principles and practice, in connection with their scheme for promoting Higher Commercial Education. This invitation I accepted with mingled gratification and diffidence with gratification on account of the honour to which I have referred, but with diffidence owing to my doubt as to my qualifications for such an undertaking, especially after the able and lucid Introductory Lecture. The large number of listeners who attentively followed this course of lectures was ample proof that the object did not lack appreciation, and decided the Council of the Chamber of Commerce to do me the further honour to publish the lectures in handbook form. To obtain a practical understanding of the subject of Marine Insurance, it is necessary to have an accurate knowledge of the scope of the contract, and of the...
