Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Horse Judging You learn only by thinking. Therefore, read your lesson slowly enough to think about what you read and try not to think of anything else. You cannot learn about a subject while thinking about other things. Think of the meaning of every word and every group of words. Sometimes you may need to read the text slowly several times in order to understand it and to remember the thought in it. This is what is meant by study. Begin with the first line on page 1 and study every part of the lesson in its regular order. Do not skip anything. If you come to a part that you cannot understand after careful study, mark it in some way and come back to it after you have studied parts beyond it. If it still seems puzzling, write to us about it on one of our Information Blanks and tell us just what you do not understand. Pay attention to words or groups of words printed in black-face type. They are important. Be sure that you know what they mean and that you understand what is said about them well enough to explain them to others. Rules are printed in italics; they, too, are important; you should learn to repeat them without looking at the book. With rules are usually given Examples for Practice. Work all of these examples according to the rules, but do not send us your work if you are able to get the right answers. If you cannot get the correct answer to an example, send us all of your work on it so that we can find your mistakes....
