Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Twenty-Ninth Secretary s Report of the Class of 1866 of Harvard College: June, 1930 He writes: I fancy you think I have been very lazy in not having answered your letter in regard to the Class Book. I have not been quite so lazy as you probably think. I have tried a dozen times to write something worthy to be published under your editorship, and I have spoiled a lot of good paper, but without success. The fact is that my rollo days are past, and I have not much to tell my friends here of my adventures. The past year, as far as anything that would interest my classmates is concerned, has been rather barren. I have lived most of the time as usual in Rome under the beneficent rule of Signor Mus solini. I suppose I have become a good member of the Fascisti family. However, that is a subject not to dilate upon. I have had thoughts of the class constantly in mind, especially of Storey and Emerson, for both of whom I have never ceased to have great respect and fondness since my Harvard days. As I have been living in a country where I could drink what I pleased with out offending the law, I have often wished that some of my class mates might turn up and help me to dispose of some Class of 1866 whiskey which I have saved for many years in hopes that it would go down the proper throats, but it is not too late for that yet. However, I expect to be with you on Commencement Day, where I hope I shall meet as many of the members...
