Createspace, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Her life is the story of the invisible life of a beautiful and elegant girl and the presence of the round and square characters in her life. Some people whose ideas are always round; once they begin a sentence on any topic, things start on a roll and keep going, coming as twenty, fifty, hundred round ideas which running one after the other to the end of horizon. On the other hand, there are people with pointed ideas, the square ideas, with four symmetrical angles that lack movements. People with square character have flat and static behaviour verses people with round characters who have fully developed and dynamic character. Round characters are complex and undergo development, sometimes sufficiently enough to surprise the readers, but square character is two-dimensional that is uncomplicated and usually do not change throughout the course of life. In this story, when the narrator for the first time in his life looks at her, really takes a look at her, he is deeply surprised with the result. He cannot believe his eyes and he is thinking: I was accustomed to seeing her in this house, just as one sees the armchair that he has been sitting on for a long time without ever having really noticing it. Just one day for some unknown reason, may be because a sunbeam falls on that chair, he says to himself: such as remarkable chair then he discovers that the wood was carved by a real artist and the fabric is a very expensive one. This is the way the narrator takes a notice of her invisible life and then he becomes obsessed to discover more. His mind is occupied to find a way...
