Excerpt from German American Annals, 1905, Vol. 7: Continuation Of The Quarterly Americana Germanica; A Monthly Devoted To The Comparative Study Of The Historical, Literary, Linguistic, Educational And Commercial Relations Of Germany And America NorclsAmerilcanische Vogel in Liedern F ur Familien-und Schulgebrauch. Von H. A. Rattermann. Selbstverlag des Verfassers. Cincinnati, O., U. S. A., 1904. Among the many productions of the Nestor of German American history, this collection occupies a unique place. It is a garland of poetic pearls, each of which is devoted to a separate species of American birds. Unlike the songs of most of the birds themselves, the songs of this collection were sung in the winter time, when the singer was banished to the quiet of his study; but they are none the less true imitations of the songsters of the woods. The meter is varied to harmonize with the song of the bird, and in many cases, the actual sounds which the birds make are imitated. A number of the poems are written in rhymeless strophic structure. To these the author has supplied the metrical scheme at...
