

Kleider Machen Leute (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Gottfried Keller

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . This book usually ship within 10-15 business days and we will endeavor to dispatch orders quicker than this where possible. Brand New Book. Excerpt from Kleider Machen Leute In June, 1848, a travelling scholarship was awarded to him by the board of education of his native canton and in October of the same year he went to Heidelberg. Ludwig Feuerbach, although not connected With the University, was lecturing there at the time, and, as God and immortality had been favorite subjects of speculation with the young man, the lectures of the famous freethinker exerted a greater influence upon him than the regular lectures in history, German literature and aesthetics which he heard at the University. In October, 1849, the scholarship was renewed, and. Influenced by the friendship of Varnhagen von Ense and the desire to be in a city which offered the advantages of a good stage, he decided to spend some time in Berlin. The middle of April, 1850, found him there, but the republican Swiss found no pleasure in the people, customs or life of the aristocratic north-german metropolis. He had a letter of introduction to Fanny Lewald, but...

READ ONLINE
[5.95 MB]

Reviews

A really wonderful ebook with perfect and lucid answers. It is really interesting through looking at period of time. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Gustave Moore

Basically no words to describe. It is filled with knowledge and wisdom I am just pleased to let you know that this is actually the greatest publication I have read within my individual lifestyle and may be the best publication for at any time.

-- Prof. Ron Gaylord II