RIVISTA CONTEMPORANEA FILOSOFIA, STORIA, SCIENZE, LETTERATURA . (21-22)DOWNLOAD

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 34 pages. LC Number: KF27 . H5725 2006f OCLC Number: (OCoLC)192148324 Subject: Local transit -- Security measures -- United States. Excerpt: . . . and have developed their own training courses. We look forward to learning about these, as well. Security training for employees is an important part of the overall effort to implement layered security measures. And I look forward to the testimony today about the numerous efforts to train employees to recognize and respond to potential security problems. And I certainly thank our witnesses for being here. And I would recognize the only other member of the subcommittee here, Mr. Langevin, if he has any comments at this time. Mr. Langevin. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. And I want to welcome our witnesses here today. I look forward to your testimony on this very important topic. And I am pleased that this subcommittee is holding a hearing on security training for mass transit and rail employees. I, along with many of my colleagues, particularly Ms. Sanchez, have been very concerned about the fact that most mass transit and rail employees are not receiving comprehensive training on how to recognize and report potential threats, also to protect themselves and passengers, and to respond if there is an incident. Over the last 5 years, Congress has done a lot of talking about supporting first responders and providing them with the tools that they need. But when it comes to rail security, we must remember that, in the bombings of mass transit and rail systems in Madrid, London and Mumbai, the first people on the scene were transportation workers. In the critical first few minutes after an incident, transportation workers who have received adequate training can help save lives and...
