By Sally Demaray Hull

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Each book in this series is complete and can stand alone. In this story, amnesia-stricken Roy Anderson believes himself to be a king-king over the local nursing home. He sees the staff as palace staff: butlers, maids, housekeeper, cook, scullery maids, chauffeur, etc. The residents are his people - some are nobility and some are not. But these are the citizens of his kingdom. As the establishment has fallen onto hard times and will have to close its doors soon, King Roy and Queen LeeAnn buy the nursing home, since Roy believes it to be his ancestral family castle, it having been constructed to resemble an old English castle. While trying to learn how the finances have fallen into such hard times, Roy discovers that someone has been pilfering funds and so dons his detective hat and enlists the help of LeeAnn and their grandchildren to solve the case of: The Missing Funds. During his investigation and rule, he promotes various residents to unprecedented positions: royal secretary, royal press secretary, assistants to the royal court jester, royal gardeners and knights....
