The Power of Purpose is a remarkable collection of thirty short motivational essays designed to be read daily over the course of a month. First published in 1994, this book remains as relevant in today's chaotic world as it was more than two decades ago. As a young child, author Jack C. McDowell began praying to know his life's purpose. At the age of twenty-five, he left his family farm and founded his own capital fund-raising business and was guided into his life's work: helping The Salvation Army-as well as colleges, hospitals, temples, and churches-raise funds and establish new ventures. Jack is a vital individual, heavily invested in business and life. His principles have proven themselves throughout the years, helping millions. Covering important topics like knowing yourself, applying your faith, and using your wealth, this extraordinary resource will help you define who you are, where you want to go, and how to get there. Used by motivational speakers and trainers, this is not a get rich quick book. This is a powerful motivational tool to help you discover-and deepen-your life's mission and purpose.
