Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Cluster analysis, also called segmentation analysis or taxonomy analysis, partitions sample data into groups or clusters. Clusters are formed such that objects in the same cluster are very similar, and objects in different clusters are very distinct. Statistics and Machine Learning Toolbox provides several clustering techniques and measures of similarity (also called distance measures) to create the clusters. Additionally, cluster evaluation determines the optimal number of clusters for the data using different evaluation criteria. Cluster visualization options include dendrograms and silhouette plots. Hierarchical Clustering groups data over a variety of scales by creating a cluster tree or dendrogram. The tree is not a single set of clusters, but rather a multilevel hierarchy, where clusters at one level are joined as clusters at the next level. This allows you to decide the level or scale of clustering that is most appropriate for your application. The Statistics and Machine Learning Toolbox function clusterdata performs all of the necessary steps for you. It incorporates the pdist, linkage, and cluster functions, which may be used separately for more detailed analysis. The dendrogram function plots the cluster tree. k-Means Clustering is a partitioning method. The function kmeans partitions data into k mutually exclusive clusters, and returns the index of the cluster to which it has assigned each observation. Unlike hierarchical clustering, k-means clustering operates on actual observations (rather than the larger set of dissimilarity measures), and creates a single level of clusters. The distinctions mean that k-means clustering is often more suitable than hierarchical clustering for large amounts of data. Clustering Using Gaussian Mixture Models form clusters by representing the probability density function of observed variables as a mixture of multivariate normal densities. Mixture models of the...
