Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The 1939 Legenda We have a choice of two large fields in which to work. There is the problem of setting our own house in order, which means taking an interest in our national government, and in furthering the democratic ideal of America by acting as progressive citizens. Or we can turn our eyes abroad, endeavouring to reach a solution to the international tangle - a solution which is neither a blind insistence on maintaining an unjust status quo, nor a solution which discards the basic ideals and standards governing human relationships. We do not have to solve the problems. We can pass them on to Other generations. But the best that is in us, the ideals which we own, demand that we face our problems squarely and take forward steps. We must seek the solution. College men and women as a whole realize that war is never a solution, but we are often surprised to find that few people outside our circles share that conviction. -it is up to us to counteract mob psychology; our reason can and...
